Independents Organize Into Militant Unit

The contention that "it is a national interest that immediate action be taken by all groups and parties" approved by the present All-Canada conference, with a view to coordinating and consolidating all efforts to establish a responsible provincial government.

The association will continue its activities to provincial affairs and the council was instructed by the conference, firstly, to promote the adoption of provincial policies which will have the effect of giving the Dominion government maximum co-operation in Canada's war effort.

The council will convene conferences with official representatives of all parties and groups appearing in the present provincial government to determine means of co-ordinating efforts of those "who desire the establishment of responsible and progressive government."

POST-WAR PROGRAM

The council also will prepare a program of immediate and post-war provincial policies, to be submitted to a future convention for such action as may be deemed advisable and co-operate with the independent members of the legislature as circumstances from time to time may warrant.

Function of the headquarters and secretary will be to collect and send out information, material and publicity, send out speakers to constituencies which require assistance and, in general, aid constituency organizations.

The council will meet at least once a year.

Speaking in the debate on the resolution to organize the association, P. C. Moyer, R.C., Drumheller, said, "We are desirous of riding the province of what we think is the silliest thing in public life that has ever disgraced the public life of Canada."

NO PARTY POLITICS

"To do this we shall have to take stock of the things for us and the things against us."

A large number of people in this province are sick and disgusted with what they call the "old line parties" although every wing of the party system of government is exemplified in what we have below the bill now.

"But there is danger in too close an organization. It can't end in the Independent movement as in a party organization. We don't want to be called just 'another party'."

"We are faced with the necessity of getting rid of our former political beliefs. There is no room in this province for party politics. We have no trade treaties or customs."

"We can't beat Aberhart by organization. He has a better organization than we shall have here. The only way to make an appeal to the public to counter his appeal."

MUST FORGET

"We have got to forget some of the things on which we are attacking Aberhart, such as Social Credit and the public debt. Social Credit is almost a dead issue and few people are really concerned about the public debt."

"We have got to put our energies into something that people will approve of. How about refunding the private debt of the province?"

"At the present time nobody can borrow money. If we have a mortgage coming due you can't borrow any new money to pay it."

"There are many people in Alberta who don't believe in Aberhart but they are afraid of what will happen if he is defeated. We have got to convince the public that those who are in the wrong through no fault of their own, will be protected."

"We can't copy Aberhart. We have got to show something better. I would rather see this council as an advisory body to give help in the riding and to leave constituency autonomy as it is. In that way each member will be responsible to his constituents rather than looking to a party leader and the council will have control of their member."

"I have the hope that, if we ever get such a system, Alberta will never go back to an anti-party system."

Members of the nominating committee, which drew up the slate of 11 members of the council for approval of the conference, were J. J. Cleaver, Calgary; J. H. Walker, Raymond; Warner, George Johnston, D. M. Turrie, Westlock; Pembina; D. M. Tingle, K.C., Edmonton.

Peru is the world's largest source of vanadium and it is said to be the only country in which the metal is mined for itself alone.

The order-in-council covering rents of all real property, to be administered by the board, provides:

1.—In areas previously subject to rent control, the maximum rents already fixed for housing accommodation continue unchanged. In some of these areas, the maximum rents are based on those in effect Jan. 2, 1941, and in the others on those in effect Jan. 2, 1941.

MAXIMUM RENTAL

2.—In all other parts of Canada, the maximum rental for any housing accommodation is the rental which was in effect Oct. 11, 1941; or, if there was no written or oral lease in force on that date, the maximum is the rental under the first lease since Jan. 1, 1940.

3.—For any business premises, leased and used for the operation of a business and dwelling purposes anywhere in Canada, the maximum rental is the rental which was in effect Oct. 11, 1941; or, if none was then in force, the rental under the first lease since Jan. 1, 1940.

4.—Premises rented for the first time after Oct. 11, 1941, may have their maximum rental determined by or under future orders of the board.

The "maximum rental regulations" apply to the rental of "any improved or unimproved land, any furnished or unfurnished store, shop, office building, factory, warehouse, suite, office, room, or other place of business, hotel, rooming apartment, flat, room, or other place of dwelling, or any structure or part of a structure used for combined business and dwelling purposes, together with all appurtenances belonging thereto, and such heating, light, water, garage, janitor and other services and such plant, equipment, facilities, as are supplied to the landlord."

NEW HOUSING

In areas previously brought under rent control, rentals for new housing or housing recently offered for rent for the first time were not automatically fixed by the board order, but could be determined by local rental committees on application by either tenant or landlord.

Under the general ceiling on rentals, however, maximum rentals on this type of housing are fixed at the Oct. 11 level.

The rent now charged for houses or other property rented between Oct. 11 and the present is the level at which rental on those properties is fixed.

"The maximum rental regulations now announced do not limit in any way the rental which may be lawfully raised above the fixed maximum in any of these cities, towns, villages and townships where maximum rents were previously fixed," the board statement said.

"Maximum charges for room and board are also fixed under the ceiling order. The supply of meals is listed as one of the services whose price may not be increased under the maximum price regulations and increases in room rental now are also prohibited."

HEAVY PENALTY

"All leases for land or premises not previously affected by rental regulations are automatically amended to bring them into conformity with these regulations."

"After Dec. 1 the maximum rental regulation makes it an offence to demand or offer to pay a rental in excess of the maximum. Violators are liable to a penalty up to $5,000 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years, or both. Any amount of rental paid in excess of the fixed maximum is recoverable by the tenant."

"Every landlord or agent is required to keep available for inspection a record describing clearly and fully property affected by the regulations, the amount of the fixed rental, the name of the tenant Oct. 11, and the name of succeeding tenants."

There was no shortage of goods but only their maximum rental determined by or under future orders of the board.

Delegates appointed to attend the provincial convention in December were A. Robertson, Sylvan Lake; George Sterling, Benito, and Horace Meeres, Concord.

ABERHART PLEDGES WAR EFFORT SUPPORT

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, Nov. 24.—(CP)—Urging the citizens of the province to "throw us in one side" if he "got in their way," Premier Aberhart declared himself by any and all measures that would go to win the war, during a speech at Rocky Mountain House Saturday night.

Premier Aberhart avowed his life was "an open book," and criticized the criticism of his speech and private life as "nonsense." He declared that he did not read the papers in which these criticisms appeared, but that he was constantly being sent clippings.

He predicted chaos if the present monetary system was continued, and offered monetary reform as the solution.

ROAD POLICY

E. R. Ryan, chairman of the evening's program, introduced Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works. Mr. Fallow commented on the fact that the Alberta Motor Association was making regarding the examination of "Land Kinds Light," following the delivery of the trial. He said that the association was interested in the main highways and not the side roads the farmers had to use.

He further declared that in the last 10 years some ten millions of dollars had been spent on roads in the province, some of which had been taken from funds previously earmarked for other services. He stated that when that money had been paid back it would be time to talk of the A.M.A.'s proposal.

One Injured As Car Turns Over

Simon Kornelovich, 62, of Stettler district, is in the General Hospital with extensive body injuries, as the result of a car leaving the highway one mile south of the city limits at about 9:30 p.m. Saturday.

Kornelovich was brought to hospital by a passing motorist, who used a tow rope to pull the car from the wheel of the car that had rolled over at least three times in the ditch before leaving the highway, according to R.C.M.P.

Alex Bogdanovich of Stettler is said to have been driving the car toward Edmonton. Kornelovich was a passenger when the automobile left the road. With him in the front seat were Annie Kornelovich, 18, and Helen, Garvenue, 4, of North Edmonton, who was also a passenger in the car. With the exception of Simon Kornelovich, all occupants escaped with a shaking up and minor bruises.

Last Rites Are Held For Late John Gillespie

Funeral services for John Gillespie, 17, 1415 11th street, president of the Gillespie Grain Co. Ltd., who died in a local hospital Wednesday, were held in the First Presbyterian church at 3 p.m. Saturday with Rev. J. MacBain officiating.

About 800 citizens gathered to pay last respects to a man who "was involved in the business of life and 'lived well because he lived in a fellowship with God.'"

It was granted to John Gillespie to live out the allotted span of years and to fill out the years contentedly, the arrival of the 10th anniversary of the arrival of the Gillespie family in Canada which began here last Sunday. Hubert Gerald Murray of Saskatoon, and Bishop R. Duprat of Prince Albert, all attended.

The size of the congregation is sufficient evidence of the high esteem in which he was held by all who knew him. It is now paying tribute to his work and words here. He spoke of the late Mr. Gillespie's work as an elder in the church.

Floral wreaths covered the whole breadth of the front of the chancel and more were heaped at the altar. "Abide With Me" was sung before the delivery of the eulogy.

Pallbearers were A. H. Settle, P. T. Alway, Green, O'Brien, Pike, E. D. C. Thomson and James Cummings of Bashaw.

Besides his wife, deceased is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Charles Hinch, Victoria, B.C., and Mrs. Charles Lake, Winnipeg, and three brothers, William of New Westminster, B.C., and Alex and Andrew of Stephen, Minn.

Interment was made in the mausoleum at the Edmonton cemetery with Foster & McEwen, funeral directors in charge of arrangements.

Family Is Destitute When Home Burns

John Dalton and his wife were left destitute, when fire destroyed their home at 119 street and 132 avenue at 9:30 Sunday morning.

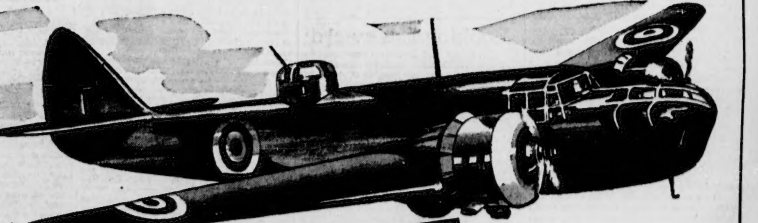

Mr. Dalton and his wife went to church, leaving a fire burning in the range. The blaze is thought to have started at the range.

The Daltons were left with only the clothes they were wearing. Without work for a long time, Mr. Dalton is reported to have secured employment with the airport here.

Const. J. Irvine investigated the "Gen. Springle" identified by the Daltons as a person or a "stirling" or "stirling," spellings which came in some versions from Rome.

BEATIN' THE BLITZ

—By Rick Elmes

McCooy Health Service

Without learning what particular type of heart trouble is present in any given case it is nevertheless possible to outline some general rules which will frequently prove helpful.

No matter what the possible cause may be it is a good plan at the beginning of the attack to rest thoroughly to cleanse the digestive tract by fasting for a few days. The rest which will accomplish the most is the fast on fruit juice, or fast on plain water. A four or five day fast will usually prove beneficial whether the heart disorder is caused from the pressure of food, from a general toxemia, or a reflex cause.

The heart must inevitably have less work to do while the patient is resting and he should therefore not hesitate to attempt it because he feels weak. He is usually stronger at the end of the fast and often finds that the heart is working more efficiently at that time than previously.

Regardless of the particular form of heart disorder I suggest the fast at the start of any regimen because the heart is usually weaker while the patient is feeling the heart action frequently becomes slower, which indicates that the heart is getting something of a rest. When the patient is feeling better, the heart is relieved of some of its usual work and as a result, it often improves.

The diet following the fast should be well regulated both as to quantity and quality of food. These small meals a day should be used.

Keep the quantity of food to the minimum of the body's requirements. All performing body's activities, such as walking, climbing, and baked beans, and even such light games as tennis, bridge, and bridge, should be avoided.

get together and framed a protest. They advanced the argument that "Charles First" they said, "never claimed vivid powers than those exercised by the Home Secretary on matter how different may have been his motives for their use. At any rate, the power of arbitrary imprisonment was claimed for the king and his council and not for a single official."

It seems to me that these gentlemen have been misled by the democratic propaganda. The true test of democracy is not to curtail power but to make it inflexible. There is no tyranny so intolerable as the tyranny of a democracy which rules his own little department, not according to his own will, but according to the letter of highly rigid and restrictive law.

The tyrant of law is never comparable with the tyrant of the lawless individual. And even a despotic ruler is less capable of inflicting more hardship and injustice than a well-disposed and reasonably intelligent individual. We are not power and authority. What we should be afraid of is those men who are defined by the limits of law and who use the law to impose their will on the people.

Strictly speaking, Hitler has no law, but the more the German Reich. Yet he manages to get along fairly well.

Dorothy Dix Says:

A bride asks me if I will tell her what she should expect. Her husband and wife most frequent. I make in marriage. Well, the most common mistake that they make is in thinking that they have changed the other.

and that there is no need to change a wife's habits.

They don't even try to look at her and become just a husband and wife. They don't even try to look at her and become just a husband and wife. They don't even try to look at her and become just a husband and wife.

They come to live because they are no longer alone and they are not alone because they are not alone. They are not alone because they are not alone. They are not alone because they are not alone.

They are not alone because they are not alone. They are not alone because they are not alone. They are not alone because they are not alone.

Husbands and wives make the mistake of thinking that marriage gives them the privilege of telling each other home truths and disregarding all tact in dealing with each other. No man can be a strategic warrior that he was any tact in dealing with his wife. He does not intend to tell his wife that she is a fool, but he does not intend to tell his wife that she is a fool.

No should any woman puncture the little bubble of the egoism of the man who is boasting of his triumph or doing his little parlor tricks. On the contrary, the woman should be a little bit of a clown about when she expresses an opinion.

Your Figure, Madame!

By IDA JEAN KAIN

The high noon of living is a threat to your nutritional standard—even with increased income. Surveys have shown that extra money goes for a better place to live, a new car, clothes, almost anything except better nutrition.

That's a mistake. Nutrition is power and it can be put to work for you.

Nim your waist line and thigh with this low-fat exercise demonstrated by Sammie Hill, radio actress. Place your foot on a support—with your hands at your sides. Then reach over and grab your toes and return your arms to your sides. Do this ten times with each leg.

for you. If I could only convince you that adequate amounts of the vital foods can actually help your husband to get a raise in pay, your children to grow taller and make higher grades in school, and you to feel like a new woman, I do not believe you would let anything stop you from taking advantage of the science of nutrition.

Most husbands and wives would rather die than pay for such a failure. They know that failure is as sweet as the honey-bread, and that any woman who will sell her mate on sweet talk can have them eating out of their hands.

DOROTHY DIX

Your Baby And Mine

If there is any one reason why naughty children grow up, it is because parents don't understand them. Without this understanding, they do make mistakes, they do things which we consider to be mischievous—wrong. But it is the way they are handled which makes the difference.

"This letter is typical of thousands. 'I am writing this letter to my sister. She has a little boy almost 18 months old. He is a very good, obedient, exceptionally bright and very good-looking child. He is a very good, obedient, exceptionally bright and very good-looking child. He is a very good, obedient, exceptionally bright and very good-looking child.'

"He wipes his hands on the floor and on our dresses. He screams when he takes what his mother shoves him in a room he bangs at the window until she lets him out. If she takes him down when he screams and screams and lies down in the street and won't budge. What makes him so naughty? Would you please offer some suggestions?"

I wonder, if someone watched you constantly, if the conditions of your life were so perfect, if, along with correction, they included punishment up to "spanking," just what kind of a person would you become?

If, in addition to this unusual kind of life, you never had playmates or friends, so that you had to spend your time alone, how would you get along with people and be "socialized," then certainly you would become the wastrel, nervous, spiteful child this boy has become.

The boy here plays himself. He needs less supervision and if he makes mistakes they should be corrected. He is a very good, obedient, exceptionally bright and very good-looking child. He is a very good, obedient, exceptionally bright and very good-looking child.

Some things my child has to do, and they should be done. He is a very good, obedient, exceptionally bright and very good-looking child. He is a very good, obedient, exceptionally bright and very good-looking child.

Our instinct "How to Make the Child Wieldy" will be sent in response to your request accompanied by a three-cent stamp, addressed envelope sent to Myrtle Edwards, Editor in care of this newspaper.

Minerals Are Vital To Sound Diet

By MRS. GAYNE MADDOX

There's so much emphasis on proteins and vitamins in food today that it is easy to overlook the equally important minerals the body needs. Minerals are a simple and easy to understand matter. Dr. E. V. McCollum, Johns Hopkins University, recommends this small primer and so does this column.

Here's a brief summary of the chapter on minerals from "American Nutrition" which covers the minerals in our diet, as well as other essential nutrients in a simple and easy to understand manner. Dr. E. V. McCollum, Johns Hopkins University, recommends this small primer and so does this column.
